The Simulation, Analysis, and Modeling (SAM) team's challenge problem is to develop methods that will enable the rapid localization of a radiation source in a cluttered, noisy urban environment. Oil well logging tools are used around the world and, typically, contain curie-level Am-Be and Cs-137 sources.

CNEC | Consortium for Nonproliferation Enabling Capabilities

In the nonproliferation sense, technology denial describes the international community's practice of seeking to prevent potential proliferants from acquiring the technology necessary to develop, build, and maintain nuclear weapons and their delivery systems.
