The definition only rules out handle-shaped holes. A sphere (or, equivalently, a rubber ball with a hollow center) is simply connected, because any loop on the surface of a sphere can contract to a point, even though it has a "hole" in the hollow center.

A very popular complex dynamical system is given by the family of complex quadratic polynomials, a special case of rational maps. Such quadratic polynomials can be expressed as  $f_c(z) = z^2 + c$  where  $c$  is a complex parameter. The Julia set for this system is the subset of the complex plane given by:
